

Cofinanciado por el programa Erasmus+ de la Unión Europea

DE-DEMOCRATISATION, GENDER+ AND THE POLITICS OF EXCLUSION
Workshop proposal to Explore Research Agenda
Baeza, Jaen, Spain, November 6-8, 2019

List of Participants

Organisers:

Emanuela Lombardo is associate professor in the Department of Politics and Administration at the Universidad Complutense de Madrid (Spain). Her research focuses on Gender and Politics, especially gender equality policies and Europeanization. Lombardo has directed as PI the research project funded by the European Commission TARGET and has participated in four research projects funded by the European Commission (QUING, MAGEEQ, CIDEL, EURCIT). She has published a hundred academic works, between articles in indexed peer-reviewed journals such as Comparative European Politics, Politics, Gender, Work and Organization, Social Politics or Feminist Review; chapters, including for Oxford University Press Handbooks, and monographs, including Gender and Political Analysis (Palgrave 2017 with Johanna Kantola), The Symbolic Representation of Gender (Routledge 2014 with Petra Meier) and La europeización de la política española de igualdad de género (The Europeanization of Spanish gender equality policy, Tirant 2004). She is member of editorial boards of international journals and book series such as Routledge Gender and Comparative Politics; Journal of Women, Politics and Policy; European Journal of Politics & Gender and coordinates the research group on Gender and Politics at Universidad Complutense de Madrid.

Ruth Rubio Marín is Professor of Constitutional Law in the University of Seville, as well as part time professor in the School of Transnational Governance of the European University Institute, where she directs the gender and governance cluster. In addition, Rubio Marín is Director of the UNESCO Chair in Interculturality and Human Rights hosted at the International University of Andalucía. Her research interests focus on Comparative Constitutional Law, Immigration and Nationality Law; Law and Feminist Jurisprudence; Linguistic Rights, Minority Rights, Citizenship Theory; Political Theory, Human Rights and Transitional Justice. She has been coordinator of several European research projects, such as the project Women and Norm Creation: Towards Parity Governance?, funded by the EUI Research Council, January-December 2015 and the project Building State Legitimacy in Transitional Contexts, funded by the EUI Research Council, January-December 2015. Her most recent publications include monographs, such as Women as Constitution Makers: Case Studies from the New Democratic Era (with Helen Irving, eds.) Cambridge University Press, forthcoming, 2019 and Gender Parity and Multicultural Feminism: Towards a New Synthesis (with Will Kymlicka, eds) (Oxford University Press, 2018) ; as well as chapters such as “Completing the Unfinished Task? Gender Quotas and the Ongoing Struggle for Women’s Empowerment in Europe” (with Eléonore Lépinard) in Transforming gender citizenship: The irresistible rise of gender quotas in Europe, (with Eleonore Lépinard, eds) (Cambridge University Press, 2018): 1-40; and articles in peer-reviewed journals such as “Notorious RBG”: A conversation with United States Supreme Court Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg”, International Journal of Constitutional Law – ICON, vol. 15, 2017.

Participants:

Alba Alonso is Lecturer at the Department of Political Science and Sociology of the University of Santiago de Compostela (Spain). Her main research areas refer to gender and equality policies, territorial politics, and the promotion of equality in research institutions. Her work has been published in Gender & Politics, Politics and Governance, Social Politics, European Journal of Women’s Studies, and European Political Science, and in collective books like Institutionalizing Intersectionality?: The Changing Nature of European Equality Regimes edited by Andrea Krizsan, Hege Skjeie and Judith Squires (Palgrave Macmillan, 2012).

Monica Cornejo is Associate Professor at the Department of Social Anthropology, Universidad Complutense de Madrid. She is co-director of the research group Anthropology, Diversity and Integration. She has studied about popular Catholicism and religion in public spaces as well as the religious fights against sexual and reproductive rights. She is the author and editor of several books (such as “La Construcción Antropológica de la Religión”, Ministerio de Cultura) and she is contributor in many others (such as “Gender and Power in Contemporary Spirituality: Ethnographic Approaches”, Routledge). Recently, she has authored (with Jose Ignacio Pichardo) papers like “From the pulpit to the streets. Religious activism against gender issues in Spain” (in David Paternotte and Roman Kuhar Anti-Gender Campaigns in Europe. Mobilizing against Equality, Rowman & Littlefield Pub), “Une décennie de croisade anti-genre en Espagne (2004-2014)” (Revue Sextant), or “La ideología de género frente a los derechos sexuales y reproductivos” (Cadernos Pagu).

Myra Marx Ferree is the Alice H. Cook Professor of Sociology emerita at the University of Wisconsin-Madison and a member of the Gender and Women’s Studies Department. Her books include Varieties of Feminism: German Gender Politics in Global Perspective (2012), Gender, Violence and Human Security with Aili Tripp and Christina Ewig (2013), and Gender: Ideas, Interactions and Institutions with Lisa Wade (2014, second edition 2018). Her numerous articles cover feminist organizations and politics, as well as gender inequality in families, the inclusion of gender in sociological theory and practice, and intersections of gender with race and class.

Johanna Kantola is Professor of Gender Studies in the Faculty of Social Sciences at the University of Tampere. I obtained my PhD in Politics at the University of Bristol in 2004 and became Docent in Politics at the University of Helsinki in 2007. Her research centres on gender, power and politics: political parties and institutions, gender equality policies in Finland and in the EU, and theoretical questions about the state, representation and intersectionality. I am the director of the ERC Consolidator Grant (2018-2023) funded research project Gender, party politics and democracy in Europe: A study of European Parliament's party groups (EUGenDem). I am also the director of the Academy of Finland (2016-2020) and University of Helsinki Research Funds (2015-2017) funded research project Gender and Power in Reconfigured Corporatist Finland (GePoCo). Her books include Gender and Political Analysis (with Emanuela Lombardo, Palgrave, 2017), Gender and the European Union (Palgrave, 2010) and Feminists Theorize the State (Palgrave, 2006). I have co-edited The Oxford Handbook on Gender and Politics (Oxford University Press, 2013, with Georgina Waylen, Karen Celis and Laurel Weldon), Gender and the Economic Crisis in Europe: Politics, Institutions and Intersectionality (Palgrave 2017, with Emanuela Lombardo), Tasa-arvo toisin nähtynä: Oikeuden ja politiikan näkökulmia tasa-arvoon ja yhdenvertaisuuteen (Gaudeamus, 2012, with Kevät Nousiainen and Milja Saari) and Changing State Feminism (Palgrave, 2007, with Joyce Outshoorn). She is the Editor of Palgrave Macmillan's Gender and Politics Book Series with Sarah Childs.

Andrea Krizsan is Research Fellow at the Central European University, Center for Policy Studies since 2001. She is interested in understanding policy change in countries of Central and Eastern Europe. She works on different equality policy fields including gender equality policy, policies on gender based violence, policies addressing ethnic inequalities and intersectionality. Her current research aims to understand the politics of policy backsliding in times of crisis and forms of resistance to such reversal particularly in countries of the Central and Eastern European region. Her most recent book with C.M. Roggeband analysed domestic violence policy reforms in five Central and Eastern European countries (Routledge, 2018). Her publications include articles in Politics and Governance, European Journal of Politics and Gender, Violence against Women, Journal of International and Comparative Social Policy, Ethnic and Racial Studies, Social Politics, and Journal for Ethnic and Minority Studies and chapters in several edited volumes. She edited a volume on women's movements mobilizing for policy change (2015), ethnic monitoring and data collection (2001) and co-edited one with J. Squires and H. Skjeie on institutionalizing intersectionality and the changing nature of European equality regimes (2012). Besides her academic work Andrea also acts as the Chair of the CEU Senate Equal Opportunity Committee. She leads the CEU team of the SUPERA Project - Supporting the Promotion of Equality in Research and Academia. Andrea has a PhD in Political Science from the Central European University.

Eszter Kováts holds a BA in sociology, an MA in French and German Studies and in Political Science. She is a PhD student at the Institute for Political Science, Faculty of Law, University ELTE, Budapest. She has been working in the Hungarian Office of the German political foundation Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung (FES) since 2009, and since 2012 she is responsible for the Foundation's gender program for East-Central Europe. In 2015 she co-edited the volume "Gender as Symbolic Glue. The position and role of conservative and far right parties in the anti-gender mobilizations in Europe" (published by FES and Foundation for European Progressive Studies). In 2016 she edited the volume "Solidarity in Struggle – Feminist Perspectives on Neoliberalism in East-Central Europe", and in 2017 "The Future of the European Union – Feminist Perspectives from East-Central Europe" (both published by FES and online available).

Petra Meier is Professor in Politics at the Department of Political Sciences, University of Antwerp. Her research focuses on the representation of gender in politics and policies, with a special interest in the institutions and mechanisms (re)producing relations of sociodemographic inequality. She lately worked and published on the relevance of symbolic representation as well as on the relation between processes of federalization and democracy.

Martijn Mos is an Assistant Professor of International Relations at Leiden University. His research focuses on the contestation of international norms, in particular with reference to LGBTI rights, gender equality and national minority rights in the European Union.

Claudia Padovani is Associate Professor in Political Science and International Relations at the University of Padova. Her main areas of interest concern the transformation of political processes in the global context and their connection to the evolution of communication processes and technologies, with a particular focus on gender equality issues, communication rights and social justice. Padovani is currently working on strengthening a global research agenda to focus on gender mainstreaming in media and digital policies, through the analytical proposal of a 'media gender equality regime' approach. Relevant recent publications are Gender Equality and the Media: A Challenge for Europe (with K. Ross, 2017, Routledge); "Gendering media policy research and communication governance" (in Janvost. The Public, Vol 25, 2018). She has coordinated the Italian team of the Global Media Monitoring Project since 2000; has participated as senior researcher in a pan-European project, funded by the European Institute for Gender Equality on "Advancing gender equality in decision-making in media organizations" (2013); and is currently involved in a EU-funded project on Advancing Gender Equality in Media Industries (AGEMI, 2017-2019) on the dissemination of good practices for gender equality in the media and ICT. She also participates in a number of international networks, including the Research and Policy Committee of the Global Alliance for Media and Gender; the UNESCO Unitwin University Network on Gender Media and ICTs (which she cochairs); and the EuroMedia Research Group.

David Paternotte is Assistant Professor of Sociology at the Université libre de Bruxelles, where he convenes the Atelier Genre(s) and Sexualité(s) and is the coeditor of the journal Sextant. His work has been published in several academic journals, including the Canadian Journal of Political Science, Social Politics, Sexualities, Perspectives on Europe, and Politique et sociétés. He is the author of Revendiquer le "mariage gay". Belgique, France, Espagne (Editions de l'Université de Bruxelles, 2011) and the coeditor of several volumes, including The Lesbian and Gay Movement and the State: Comparative Insights into A Transformed Relationship (Ashgate, 2011 with Manon Tremblay and Carol Johnson), and LGBT Activism and the Making of Europe: A Rainbow Europe? (Palgrave, October 2014, with Phillip Ayoub). He is currently preparing the Ashgate Research Companion to Lesbian and Gay Activism (Ashgate, 2015, with Manon Tremblay).

Elena Pavan is Senior Assistant Professor at the Department of Sociology and Social Research of the University of Trento. She holds a degree in Communication Sciences (University of Padova, 2004) and a PhD in Sociology (University of Trento, 2009). Her most recent research interests pertain to the relationships between collective action/political participation and digital media use. Within this area, she is working interdisciplinary combining technical and social knowledges as well as traditional qualitative and quantitative research methods with digital methods and big data approaches.

J. Ignacio Pichardo is Associate Professor (Profesor Titular) in the Social Anthropology and Social Psychology Department of Universidad Complutense de Madrid (UCM). Vice-Dean of the Faculty of Social Work, Head for International Affairs. Implemented and coordinated the UCM Office of Sexual Diversity and Gender Identity (LGBT+). Graduate and Doctor in Social Anthropology from Universidad Autónoma de Madrid. Teaches classes on Anthropology of Gender. Has undertaken research and/or teaching stays at San Francisco State University, Laboratoire de Sciences Sociales in Paris, Université du Québec à Montréal, Universidade Estadual Paulista, Universidad de Buenos Aires, Western Sydney University and was awarded the post of Visiting Professor at Università di Foggia (Italy) in 2016. Co-director of the Anthropology, Diversity and Integration Research Group. His own research projects focus on issues of kinship, family, sexuality, gender and interculturality. Has completed and published various investigations into sexual diversity, lesbian women and human rights, “gender ideology” discourses against women and LGBTQI rights, gay and lesbian families and, particularly, the situation of gay, lesbian, bisexual and trans adolescents in educational environments.

Conny Roggeband lectures at the Department of Political Science of the University of Amsterdam. Her research interests include gender mainstreaming and equality policies, gender-based violence, social movements and transnational feminist networking. Her current work deals with democratic backsliding and the implications for gender equality. She coauthored (with Andrea Krizsan) The Gender Politics of Domestic Violence. Feminists Engaging the State in Central and Eastern Europe (Routledge 2017). She edited (together with Bert Klandermands) The Handbook of Social Movements Across Disciplines (Springer 2017); with Anna van der Vleuten and Anouka van Eerdewijk Gender Equality Norms in Regional Governance: Transnational Dynamics in Europe, South America and Southern Africa (Palgrave 2014), and with Jacqueliën van Stekelenburg and Bert Klandermands The Future of Social Movement Research: Dynamics, Mechanisms and Processes (University of Minnesota Press 2013).

Birgit Sauer is professor at the Department of Political Science at the University of Vienna, Austria. She has published on gender, governance and democracy, on gender and right-wing populism and on affective labour and state transformation. She was member of the Executive Committee of European Consortium for Political Research. She held visiting professorships in Seoul (South Korea), Florida Atlantic University (USA), Södertörn University (Sweden). Recent publications include: Gender and Citizenship: Governing Muslim Body Covering in Europe, in: Gemzöe, Lena et al. (eds.): Contemporary Encounters in Gender and Religion. European Perspectives, Cham: Palgrave MacMillan, 2016, p. 105-129; Intersections and inconsistencies. Framing Gender in Right-Wing Populist Discourses in Austria, in: NORA. Nordic Journal of Feminist and Gender Research, 2014, together with Edma Ajanovic and Stefanie Mayer; Affective governmentality: A feminist perspective, in: Hudson, Christine/Rönblom, Malin/Teghtsoonian, Katherine (eds.): Gender, Governance and Feminist Analysis. Missing in Action?, London/New York: Routledge 2017, p. 39-58, together with Otto Penz.

Birte Siim is Professor Emerita in Gender Research in the Social Sciences, Dept. of Culture and Global Studies, Aalborg University (AAU), Denmark. She has been responsible for the Danish EU teams on citizenship, democracy, gender, migration and populism. Her publications include: Citizens' Activism and Solidarity Movements: Contending with Populism, 2018 (ed. with A. Saarinen and A. Krasteva); Diversity and Contestation over Nationalism in Europe and Canada, Palgrave, 2018 (ed. with J-E. Fossum and R. Kastoryano); 'Gendering European welfare states and citizenship - revising inequalities', in P. Kennett and N. Lendvai-Benton (eds.). Handbook of European Social Policy, 2017 (with A. Borchorst); 'Gender Diversities – Practicing Intersectionality in the European Union', Ethnicities, 2014 (with L. Rolandsen Agustin); 'Political Intersectionality and Democratic Politics in the European Public Sphere', Politics & Gender, 2014; Negotiations of Gender and Diversity in an Emergent European Public Sphere (ed. with M. Mokre) 2013, 'Citizenship', in K. Celis et. al. (eds). The Oxford Handbook on Gender and Politics, 2013; Gender and Citizenship. Politics and Agency in France, Britain and Denmark 2000. E- mail: Siim@cgs.aau.dk Mieke Verloo is Professor of Comparative Politics and Inequality Issues at Radboud University in the Netherlands, and Non-Residential Permanent Fellow at the IWM, Institute for Human Sciences in Vienna. She is the winner of the 2015 ECPG Gender and Politics Career Achievement Award. She was scientific director of large research projects on gender equality policymaking in Europe (see www.mageeq.net and www.quing.eu). She has extensive consultancy and training experience on gender mainstreaming and intersectionality for several European governments and institutions. Among her latest publications are: the edited volume on Varieties of opposition to gender equality in Europe published by Routledge (2018), and the special issue 'The feminist project under threat in Europe' in Politics and Governance, coedited with David Paternotte. Her recent work is on the complex relationship between democracy and gender+ equality.